It must be so, for more breaches of good manners and gentleman- and lady-like deportment can scarcely be seen anywhere than in a railroad -car, especially on the trains between Bloomfield and New York. If a gentleman does not give his seat to a lady he is looked upon with not very favorable eyes and silently branded a "horrid creature," etc.; and so he is very often, as no true gentleman would submit to the uncomfortable feeling of sitting while a lady was standing at his elbow, although he has been working hard all day and is tired. To one who has never visited the farming districts of the State of Iowa and witnessed the broad expanse of her agricultural fertility it were useless to try and describe its vastness. As one stands and views section after section of wheat, corn, outs and other cereals he is lost amazement; but when we consider the vast mount of grain consumed in the United States, to say nothing of the shipments to foreign countries, we can in a measure realize why so much of bread stuffs is raised. Iowa has many natural beauties, besides its wheat fields; the prarie with its surface covered with beautiful and rare flowers, witnessed at day-break, is a scene never to be forgotten. Flowers of all forms, hues and colors meet one's eye upon Extensive buildings are to be erected at Wat- every hand. Sunset on the prairies of Iowa is sessing in the vicinity of Scabury & Co.'s works, another beautiful feature. Words are inadequate to express the grandeur of a western sunset. It must be seen to be appreciated. Heavy dews make a pair of rubber boots almost indispensable for a western man and chills and fever are readily contracted by exposing one's self to the night air, unless well protected. Your correspondent had the pleasure of spending a Sabbath in Watertown, Iowa, and was invited by his brother to attend church services, which were held in a frame school-house some half-mile distant. I consented, and asked for a few moments' time to put on my best Sundaygo-to-meeting harness, which was readily assented to. I noticed a peculiar twinkle in my nost's eve and, as I thought, a rather sarcastic smile upon his face, but said nothing. I donned white vest, stand-up collar and white tie, and we started. On the road we met a number of farm-wagons, well filled, wending their way towards the school-house. On the way some one hollered and looking round, I saw a huge sunbonnet and a white borse, with a rope halter, coming at full speed, and as they passed found behind the bonnet was a mature-looking matron, with four urchins holding on to one another for dear life. She drove up to the fence and the youngsters dismounted. Hale and hearty they looked after a ride of ten miles to meeting. Around the door of the building and scated upon the fences were some fifty or more persons. Some had come as far as fifteen miles. Upon entering we found as many more. The stranger was at once the centre of attraction. "Who is it ?" "Where's he from ?" and other remarks were pass. A very large and attentive congregation assemble, to hear Rev. Mr. Harcourt on Sunday evening last, "Passing through one of the streets of a neighboring city not long ago," said the preacher, "I saw the following words painted on a board and nailed to a building "Rooms to let-With power." As I looked at them I said to myself, "A good subject for a sermon;" and while I mused the fire burned and as I meditated on the word power I thought of Christ's words recorded by the Apostle Luke in Acts, the first chapter and twenty-eighth verse: "But ye shall receive power after that the Holy Chost is come upon you, any ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem and in Judge and Semaria and unto the uttermost parts of the earth." Man's body in the Scriptures'is compared to a house, and Christ represents himself as standing at the door, wisking for an entrance. "Behold," says he, "I stand at the door and knock If any man will hear my voice and onen the door I will come in unto him and will sup with him and he with me." In the words of our text we have an inducement placed before us, in order that we may invite this guest, the Holy Ghost, to take up his abode in us. That promise ls a promise of power-"Te shall receive power." When our blessed Lord and Master was about to leave the world he said to his disciples, "It is expedient that I go away, for if I go not away the Comforter will not come unto you; but if I go I will send Him." And when the day of Pentecost was fully come the disciples were all of one second in one place waiting for the fulfillment of the promise; and suddenly there came a sound from heaven, as of a mighty rushing wind, and it filled all the house where they were sitting and there appeared unto them cloven tongues like as of fire and it sat upon each of them and they were all filled with the Holy Ghost and began to speak with other tongues, as the spirit gave them utterance To many the power bestowed only seemed confusion. Some said, "These men are filled with new wine." But l'eter declared they were not drunken but that the prophecy was being fulfiled which was epoken by the prophet Just "And it shall come to pass in the last days. saith God, I will pour out my spirit upon all fiesh and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy." "And," said Peter, "baving re-Ghost, He bath shed forth this which you see and bear"-that is, he hath shed forth power. Webster deflues power to be ability to act; espacity for action. This is a definition which | surv fwill answer for physical, moral or apiritual power. Ability to set. Without power Peter trembled before the maldservant; with it he withstood princes and kings. Let us follow the disciples ter a little apace after they received this power. The poor large man, at the temple gate, is healed by a word. The disciples are cast into prison and are brought forth to be questioned "by what power or by what name they have done this." Peter answers the question and declares the power of God. "But we shall receive power after that the Holy Ghost has come upon you." Power in Reelf is an abstraction. You can't see it; you can't bear it; you can't taste it; you can't mell ft. Yet you may witness its results every. where. I see the train moving, but it is not power I see - only an evidence of power. I bear the thunder rear, but it is not power I hearonly the nonsequence of it. All forms of power in themselves are equally tuvisible. Power is alone known through its agents and results. "But," says one, "suppose I do receive the baptism of power and no good results follow: what must I think?" A few years ago a young angineer was being examined for graduation, when his examiner proposed the following ques-Mon: "Suppose you have a steam-pump constructed for a ship under your own supervision. and know that everything is in perfect order, yet when you throw out the hose it will not draw; what would you think?" "I would to think, sir, there must be a defect somewhere. But the supposition is that everything is perfeet." "Then, sir, I would look over the side of the vessel to see if the see had run dry " fie. when you receive this guest down thto your heart and no good results follow, I should look to see if God had vanished from the universe "A powerless Christian" ought to be felt to be as great's misnomer as "s forceless thunder bolt." Oh ! what an army ought the Christian to be enrolled under the Lord of Hosts !-- strong in faith, in purity, in prayer, but above all. strong in God and the power of his might. "P.DOB'T WANT A PLASTER," eald a sick man to a druggist, "can't you give ms something to cure me !" Ris symptoms Were a lame back and disordered urine add stere a sure indication of kidney disease. The druggist told him to use Kidney. Wort and in a short time it effected a complete apre. Have you these symptoms? Then get a box to-day-before you become incurable. It is the cury, pale and sure.
